

GORSLINE SOUGHT AS MURDER AID

Simpson Orders Vestryman Held With Mrs. Russell

office. The witness' name was withheld but it was learned that her identity would be made known as soon as her story had been checked up by investigators.

The woman, according to the senator, told him the names of two men whom she described as eye-witnesses of the double slaying. He admitted that he was impressed by her story.

May Solve Mystery

"If she is telling the truth," he declared, "this case is finished. She's got two eyewitnesses and if her story stands up, it will blow the case. If her story is true, and it can be checked up within forty-eight hours, there will be arrests all around. We can make at least four arrests on the strength of it."

The woman, who is a blond, and about 40 years old, told the senator that her reason for not coming forward at the investigation four years ago was that witnesses for the prosecution were "pulled and hauled about by detectives and treated like defendants." She asserted, according to the senator, that she had conferred with her husband and decided finally to tell her story in the hope that it would clear up the most intriguing unsolved crime in New Jersey's history.

Contradicted "Pig Woman"

Mrs. Russell played an important part in the first investigation. She contradicted the story told by Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," who asserted she saw the entire crime and identified two persons on the scene as a "woman in gray" and a "bushy-haired man." Mrs. Russell declared that Mrs. Gibson had been in the Russell hut at the time she said she was out on the old Phillips farm chasing corn thieves, where the murder took place. At an early hour today Mrs. Russell had not yet been arrested.

The GRAPHIC first informed Ralph V. N. Gorsline of the arrest of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, charged with the murder of her husband, the Rev. E. W. Hall, and Mrs. Eleanor Mills. Gorsline showed no surprise, and asserted that he would make no comment on the case. He refused to answer any questions.

Henry D. B. Carpender, cousin of Mrs. Hall, also was informed first by this newspaper. He is reported to have left Gloucester, Mass., and nothing is known of where he is bound.

27 Physicians Indicted For Breaking Rum Law

A sweeping investigation of a ring of prohibition violators by the grand jury has resulted in the indictment of twenty-seven physicians by that body. Thirty-six druggists and fourteen whisky agents were also indicted.

Of the fourteen indictments handed down by the grand jury, each charges a separate conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

The July Federal jury, which ordinarily would have been dismissed days ago, has continued in session to investigate the acts of the several violators named.

Those physicians indicted are: Benjamin H. Archer, 2140 Crotona Ave., The Bronx; Jose Lisandro Medina, 203 West 81st St.; Paul Kaufman, 68 East 83d St.; John E. Swartz, 44 West 89th St.; Morris Rubinstein, 1974 Grand Ave.; Alexander R. Alexander, 307 East 10th St.; Mathias Nachumi, 472 West End Ave.; Samuel Schechter, 2284 Grand Ave., Bronx; Abraham L. Wincor, 1140 Crotona Ave., Bronx; Harry Pike, 1269 Grand Concourse,

HERE ARE the three leading figures in the famous Hall-Mills murder which, after four years, appears to be about on the verge of clearing up through the warrant for the arrest of R. V. Gorsline as an accomplice. Reading from left to right, they are Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the slain rector; the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, the murdered clergyman, and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, the pretty choir singer, who was slain by his side under a crabapple tree.

More Mexican Killings, Several of Protestants

MEXICO CITY, AUG. 5 (By U. P.).—Catholics in Guadalajara have telegraphed the Episcopate here that two persons were killed and fifteen wounded in rioting at the Church of St. Guadalupe, when police and soldiers attempted to disperse a crowd.

Mate, 73, Starved Her Woman, 70, Tells Police Court

Anthony Ramelli, 73, of 290 Ogden St., Orange, N. J., is on probation today following his arraignment in Orange Police Court on complaint of his 70-year-old wife, who accused him of starving her.

Ramelli, she told Judge Giordano, cooked his own meals, ate them alone and then locked everything left over in a cupboard.

He was ordered to share his food with the woman and placed on probation for a week.

BUCH ELECTED

SEAFIRT, N. J., Aug. 5.—Joseph G. Buch of Trenton has been elected chairman of the New Jersey Crippled Children's Commission.

Leading Figures in Tragedy

Floods Cripple Japanese Town

TOKIO, Aug. 5 (By U. P.).—The most serious flood recorded in thirty-five years has devastated Akita prefecture.

Four thousand houses were inundated in the town of Honjo. The number of casualties in the flood are as yet unknown.

Clashes outside Mexico City, resulting from the religious controversy, are admitted by Secretary of the Interior Tejeda, although the government holds to its contention, that the countryside is "tranquil."

Reports of several killings of Protestants in Iraputa were brought here by an American traveling man.

Following suggestions of mediation by leading financiers, the church and the state are understood to have taken positions which will permit of no conciliation.

Bishop Diaz, as head of the Episcopal committee, has given out a papal letter sent by Cardinal Gasparri, secretary, to George Caruna, the apostolic delegate to Cuba, who was recently expelled from Mexico.

The letter says that "the Holy See condemns the Mexican religious laws, and at the same time will condemn all acts that may signify, or be interpreted by people of faith, as acceptance or recognition of the same laws."
